The Nation's Interests in the Pacific.

Ample Funds for the Proposed Coal-ing Station at Samoa.

Hawaii's Proposition for Securing This Country's Protection.

The All-Americans Return Well Pleased with Their Tour of 600 Miles—The Pres-dent's Outing.

By Telegraph to the Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] The recent consideration by the Secretary of State and Secretary of the Navy of the proposition to purchase a site for a coaling station on the Hawaiian Islands, for which the United States holds an exclusive right under the treaty negotiated by Secretary Frelinghuysen and Minister Corder, and promulgated in 1857, has drawn attention and given rise to a series of legal claims for the protection of the interests of the United States in the Pacific. Shortly before the close of the Fifteenth Congress an appropriation of $50,000 was made, to be distributed by the President for the protection of American interests in Samoa. This fund has something of a confidential nature, and it may be that a detailed report of the disbursements will not be made. So far as known, only one claim against it is the expense of the Samoan Commission to Berlin last spring, the cost of sending home the sailors, both German and American, wrecked in the storm at Apia last March, and the expense of sending gifts to Samoa. It is also known that the sum was used for their bravery and services on the occasion of that storm in rescuing and succoring those in distress.

An appropriation of $100,000 was also made at the same time for the estab-lishing a coaling station at Pago Pago, Samoa. Of this sum nothing yet has been expended. A purchase was made of 20,000 tons of coal at a cost of $86,000, which is now in storage at Pago Pago, and it is not known whether to charge the cost to the special appropriation or to the regular naval appro-priation for the purchase of coal.

Admiral Kimberly has made a survey and report upon the site for the proposed station, which is now before Secretary Tracy for his consideration.

HAWAII'S OVERTURES.

Her Plan for Coming Under Uncle Sam's Protection.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] H. A. P. Carter, Hawaiian Minister, recently returned to Washington after a visit to his home in Honolulu. In an interview his attention was called to what was telegraphed from San Francisco on his arrival there, concerning the future diplomatic and treaty relations between the United States and his Government.

Carter replied that there was a desire on the part of his Government for closer relations between the Hawaiian Kingdom and the United States.

The Minister was asked if anything had been done officially to formulate such an arrangement with his country. Carter re-piled that his family had informed him of the propositions to the Secretary of State, but I expect to do so. The propositions will be five: First, the continuance of the present treaties in force and making them permanent; only other mutual con-siderations in view; second, that each country shall treat the articles which, under the reciprocity treaty, it admits free of duty, precisely as if the proposition originated in the country; no mutual con-siderations; third, that each country shall be entitled to an extension of the principle of reciprocity in trade and made even to the extent of giving all the benefits of reciprocity between the two countries, except upon certain articles, such as opium and spirit; fifth, that the United States guarantees the independence of Hawaii, and to enable her to do so without danger of conquest, Hawaii agrees to make no treaty without the knowledge of Europe.

"We think there are good and urgent reasons why these propositions should take the form of a treaty engagement."

SMOKELESS POWDER.

Gen. Benet Thinks It May Be Adopted in the Army.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] The subject of smokeless powder for military uses occupies considerable space in the annual report of Brig.-Gen. Benet, Chief of Ordnance. He says in part: "No American has yet submitted for trial smokeless powder, and the experiment with compressed powder has shown the same eccentricity as that developed abroad, tending to destroy confidence in the final production of a serviceable compressed-powder cartridge. There is reason to believe, from an application made to an officer of the Ordnance Department more than 10 years ago, that smokeless powder originated in America, and should be brought to the attention of the world and foreign countries. In view of the present status of the powder question, it is not deemed expedient to make a small trial of compressed-powder cartridges. Such a rifle, however excellent in itself, would be inferior to arms using smokeless powders, and consequently unsatisfactory to the army at present."

It is never known what elements enter into the problem, except powder, are ready for use the moment the powder is obtained."

THE LONG EXCURSION ENDED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Just 42 days after the morning of October 32, when the special train bearing the international American excursion party pulled out of the station in New York, the long-distance train headed by the locomotive which had driven it nearly 6,000 miles, rolled triumphantly into the Capitol City and drew up at the station, having successfully completed the most interesting and from a railroad standpoint the most difficult part of the tour taken by one train. How the excursion has resulted in forwarding the most important objects which the American conference was called to attain, has been eloquently told by the delegates themselves through the medium of the Associated Press.

PLAYED WITH NATURAL GAS.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 13.—At Mt. Morris today a number of boys had rigged up an old feed-cutter in an abandoned building. Natural gas was brought through a pipe laid from a well near by, that the expatriating gas into the firebox. The boys visited the building in the evening and turned on the gas, and one of the boys struck a match to make closer inspection of the new invention. In an instant there was a roar, and the building exploded so quickly that the boys had to make their way through the fire to escape. They were all terribly burned about their heads and faces, but it is thought none are fatally injured.

A QUEER CRAZY
Running Away from a Girl He Has Wronged.

Constable Fawkes of Burbank brought in Andrew Essig yesterday morning and placed him in the County Jail on a charge of burglary. Late on Tuesday night the man entered a house at Burbank by climbing through a window.

From the story he tells and also from his actions it is manifest that the man is evidently insane. He claims to have arrived here from Arizona last Tuesday morning, and, with the intention of visiting Lower California, he boarded an out-going train at the Wolfkill depot the same afternoon. On the cars he fell in with a woman whom he had known in the past, with whose daughter he had been very well acquainted. After talking to the woman for a while she accused him of being criminally intimate with her daughter, and demanded hush-money from him. He then jumped off the train while it was in motion, and from this city went to Burbank, to which place he says he was followed by a number of men, who made threats against his life unless he would agree to give the woman money.

Being afraid of the men, who he said were very close to him, he jumped through the window, as he did not have time to arouse the inmates of the house and ask their protection. He also said he had to run away from Missouri to escape being killed by a woman, with whose daughter he had been in the habit of visiting.

Essig is badly bruised about the face and head, and claims that his injuries were received when he jumped from the train.

No wonder chrysanthemums are the rage.

RAILROAD rumors fill the air and they are not all rumors.

CHARITY suffereth long and is kind, but don't let it suffer too long.

WHAT are the sensations of tourists as they glide from snow-banks into orange groves?

It is an old game to enter the enemy's camp as a friend, create dissatisfaction, stir up various factions, form cliques and parties that will weaken the organization. This is about the time of the year when this game is tried with success.

WHAT up-country farmer in Vermont and New Hampshire, with say one hundred acres, can show $900 net from the entire products of ten acres? A ten-acre lot of the Raymond Improvement Company produced six tons of English walnuts from three hundred trees last season, and received $800 from the shipper in Los Angeles. The trees covered about ten acres.

In every community, in every House of Representatives, we find a certain number of peculiarly organized persons who feel it their duty to attack and condemn certain departments of the Government. The Agricultural Department generally gets the brunt of them. In point of fact, this department should be encouraged in every way. It is at present divided up into divisions, to one of which, the Division of Entomology, we are indebted for the Australian ladybug, that has swept the white scale away so thoroughly. This division has recently begun to issue a monthly bulletin, called "Insect Life," that gives the latest facts relating to insects injurious to vegetation. It should be in the hands of every agriculturist.

The fact that the names of several Pasadena capitalists have been mentioned in connection with purchases of land at Catalina revives interest in the famous island that will in the future be not only the pride of Los Angeles, but of the Pacific Coast. The climate of the island is an ideal one, and a winter hotel there, with means of getting to and from, would well pay. The requirements at present are a thoroughly first-class hotel, an extensive supply of money, backed by good taste in the way of trees, shrubs, palms, etc., a supply of sailboats, and last and not least stock the island with deer, pheasant, wild turkey, etc. This done and the news circulated, and the conditions for making a hotel project, pay on a large scale are obtained.

The chrysanthemum show is a most creditable one, and, being pure a charity, should be patronized by everyone. Few families of flowers present so many varieties, and of the thousand or more species, almost every one has some peculiarity, more or less beautiful, to attract attention and delight the observer. The word chrysanthemum means literally a golden flower, and its original habitat was the temperate portions of the Old World. The Japanese are particularly skillful in producing varieties of the flower, and their exhibitions are famed the world over. Instead of showing the plants individually, they present masses of them, banked up at an angle of 45 degrees, the lower row being dwarf plants but a few inches high, while the upper ones are the giants of the family, six or eight feet high, with flowers six or seven inches across.

In all probability a rain may be expected within a week. What has been done to care for the storm water? Property was damaged on California street and other localities, and taxpayers have a right to expect some action on the part of the powers that be. If we are not mistaken, the contract for putting Orange Grove avenue in its present shape was one of the largest ever given out in Southern California, and property-owners paid enormous sums; yet the gutters here are utterly inadequate for the purpose for which they were intended, and a bad storm will ruin the entire gutter on the west side of the street. During the last storm houses were flooded by storm water between California and Columbia streets. We have done well, but new people coming in and buying property should have some assurance that they will not have to add a boat to their outfit during a storm.

Two weeks more and Thanksgiving is upon us, and no one will gainsay but that we have had much to be thankful for during the past year. We have read of terrific storms, blizzards, hurricanes and cyclones in the East, while here we have passed a year that has been comparatively eventless as regards disagreeable incident.

The Thanksgiving time of the East is dear to the memory of many an old boy in Pasadena. There was a week's vacation, and around Boston you could almost always count on skating. The entire family went up to the old home in New Hampshire, where grandfather and mother were born—an old rambling house, with many gables, and broken beams put in place in the last century by patriotic hands. What a wonder of wonders was the old garret, the floor littered with oil nutkins, antique bits of furniture, bits of brass and crockery; the rafters hung with strings of apples, herbs and popcorn. THE FLOWER OF GOLD.A WONDERFUL DISPLAY OF CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

Gorgeous Colors—Tints and Hues Indescribable—Flowers from Japan—The Famous Mrs. Alpheus Hardy—The Show a Big Success.

The chrysanthemum, national flower of Japan, reigns as queen at the fair. All day yesterday her admirers were sleek, mysterious brass-nailed trunks, chests of drawers, giving out odors of long ago, that contained old letters that brought back tears and laughter. Thanksgiving morning! The roads are frozen hard, and every mud-puddle has its pane of glass. How clear and bracing the air! The sky is overcast, and soon a feather something comes floating down. Snow? Yes, and there another, and soon the air is filled with the fairy forms scurrying this way and that, chasing each other about and performing wonderful feats. The ground is soon covered. The boys go to the pond with brooms to sweep it off, while a shaking of bells in the barn tells of a possible sleigh-ride before night. The snow is damp, and what balls are made! What extraordinary figures grow under the hands of the young artists! Then dinner comes; grandparents, great-grandparents—four generations; mighty turkeys, game pigeons, brown bread, hot biscuits, pork-rashers, apple-sauce, cream, rosy apples, four kinds of pie-apple, mince, custard and squash; cranberries, honey, maple sugar, Indian pudding and much more; not bit by bit, mind you, but with a burst of hospitality served all at once. Then at night how we gathered around the fire! How the old brass andirons gleamed! How the sparks flew, and the wind roared under the eaves! What stories were told and merry times recalled, and finally to bed, sunk deep in a fathomless feather-bed, the four lofty posts rising like grim, attenuated giants. Who does not remember such Thanksgiving, and, perhaps, felt a longing for the good old times when the day comes around?

The Von Schroeder Ranch.

(San Francisco, Cal.)

Baron von Schroeder evidently intends to make a model place out of his San Luis Obispo county ranch, which is located about four miles from Santa Margarita. Already there are several miles of water piping on the place, conveying the fluid to fountains and fish-ponds. This week plumbers are laying over a mile of additional pipes. When their work is completed, a perfect network of pipes will exist under the soil surrounding his fine residence. It is given out upon good authority that Baron von Schroeder will, at some time in the near future, have constructed a branch railroad running from Santa Margarita to his ranch. This would necessitate an outlay of $20,000 or $25,000. When the place is finally completed it will take rank with the castles the Baron left behind in the Fatherland.

The new engine-house is almost completed. It is said to be one of the finest south of San Francisco.

The Presbyterian social, erroneously announced for this evening, will not be held until Thursday of next week.

A fine musical was given at the Baptist social on Tuesday evening at the residence of Mrs. L. H. Michener.

A special meeting of the King's Daughters will be held this afternoon at 2:30 in the First Presbyterian Church, corner Fort and Second streets. A large attendance is desired, as the meeting is called with the intention of organizing the "teus" and transacting other business.

Col. Smith and party, who went over to Catalina Island the other day to look for a site for the big $250,000 hotel, returned yesterday. Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday of the Consumers' Gas, Light, Heat and Power Company of Los Angeles. The capital stock of the company is $200,000, of which $10,000 is paid up. The incorporators are L. E. Mosher, H. Newmark, H. L. MacNeil, J. B. Quigley and E. Dunham.

It was reported, however, that Detective Bowles of the regular force recovered the rifle from Adam's gun store on Commercial street two days after it was stolen, and returned it to the owner.

There is considerable kicking in the southern portion of the city below Twelfth street on account of a proposed change of the names of streets. The Council proposes to give names by numbers from Twelfth street out, and some of the property-owners think it an outrage to do away with the old romantic names that the streets are now known by, and they are at work on a petition which will be presented to the Council at its next meeting.

The young men who were arrested for the Garvanza burglary were promptly discharged yesterday morning. On being confronted with the man who bought the gun he said at once they were not the men. This going to a young man's house at 11 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and on the mere suspicion, based upon the fact that he "was tall and thin and wore a mustache," as was the case with young Bradford, and then compelling him to walk to town, was an outrage.
